

COVID-19: RESILIENT SYSTEMS AND THE GLOBAL PANDEMIC

WEBINAR 1: PERSONAL RESILIENCE AND GLOBAL PERSPECTIVES

FRIDAY 1 MAY 2020, 6.30 - 8.30 PM

Join us for this series of 2-hr webinars on personal, organisational and planetary health throughout May, looking at the role of Integrative Medicine (IM) in boosting resilience in ourselves and the planet as a whole.

Dr Elizabeth Thompson will open this live interactive webinar by addressing our personal resilience, before handing over to John Weeks, editor-in-chief of JACM (The Journal of Alternative and Complementary Medicine), who will discuss Global Approaches to the COVID pandemic, within the context of IM.

National Centre for Integrative Medicine
Inspiring health and wellbeing

NCIM supports a growing movement for change in healthcare, combining conventional, lifestyle and holistic approaches to improve health and wellbeing.

NCIM is a Community Interest Company (08529099)

FREE if you join the NCIM Integrative Health and Scientific Network
Friday 1 May, 8 May, 15 May 2020

Cost: £17.50 per seminar

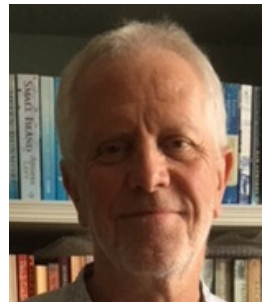

Information & Bookings
0117 973 8035 | education@ncim.org.uk

www.ncim.org.uk

This event is for Healthcare Professionals, CAM practitioners and Researchers, Students and members of the public who want clinical and evidence-based updates within a broad vision of healthcare.

Webinar 1 Programme, 6.30 - 8.30pm:

- Dr Elizabeth Thompson, NCIM CEO - Personal Resilience in the face of COVID-19
- John Weeks - Global approaches to the COVID-19 Pandemic
- Martin Wells, Psychotherapist, Author - Meditation
- Dr Duncan Still – Pooling our Resources
- Dr Elizabeth Thompson – Closing Remarks

John Weeks has worked in integrative health for 35 years as a chronicler, speaker, organizer, executive and consultant. His Integrator Blog News & Reports and other writing have chronicled integrative policy and action for 25 years. In May 2016, he began serving as editor-in-chief of the field's most enduring indexed journal, JACM – Paradigm, Practice and Policy Advancing Integrative Health (The Journal of Alternative and Complementary Medicine). As the integrative era began in the mid-1990s, Weeks began consulting on integration strategies with diverse parties, including the National Institutes of Health, the Washington State Office of the Insurance Commissioner, American Hospital Association, multiple insurers, hospitals, professional and academic organizations and later with WHO and the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO) on their traditional and integrative strategies. Believing that the potential to influence policy is linked to the field forming ever-stronger collaborative organizations and initiative, he helped found and direct multiple interprofessional initiatives: Integrative Medicine Industry Leadership Summits, Integrative Health Policy Consortium, Academic Collaborative for Integrative Health, and later the Academy of Integrative Health and Medicine. Weeks attended Stanford University for three years, studying history. Four institutions have granted him honorary doctorates. He works from Seattle, Washington and can be found stand-up paddle-boarding 3-4 times a week, year around, on the Salish Sea that abuts Seattle.

Please contact us for full programme details, to make a booking, or to enquire about available discounts.
Payments can be made via BACS or by card
over the phone - education@ncim.org.uk / 0117 973 8035

NCIM Integrative Health and Scientific Network
www.ncim.org.uk/membership